TWO GUARDSMEN MEET DEATH AT NEWMARKET

Privates Smith and Watson of Company
L, 6th Massachusetts Infantry Struck by Express Train

Two members of the Massachusetts National Guard doing protective work on the Boston and Maine railroad at Newmarket were killed on Friday morning shortly before 9 o'clock by being struck by the Boston and Maine express train.

The men were Privates Joseph A. Smith, aged 23, of Boston, and Edward O. Watson, aged 20 years, of Everett, Mass.

Both were engaged in guard duty at bridge No. 63, between Newmarket and Durham and stepped off the east bound truck on to the west bound track to get out of the way of an approaching extra freight. The noise of the freight train prevented their hearing the approach of the express and it was upon them before they had a chance to escape.

News of the accident was sent to Newmarket and Dr. John D. Butler responded but on his arrival it was found that both men were beyond medical aid.

The bodies were removed to C. E. Tasker's undertaking rooms to await the disposition of relatives.

Smith, it is understood, leaves a wife, having only recently been married.

Both of the young men were popular with their comrades and their untimely death caused much sorrow.

AUSTRIANS ADMIT ITALIAN SUCCESSSES

(By Associated Press)
London, May 25.—An official statement by Austria admits Italian successes on the Carso plateau, but claims Austrians inflicted damage elsewhere.

The statement says the battle of Orsova has been waged with extra stubbornness and masses of the enemy have attacked on a front of 40 kilometers.

(By Associated Press)
South Merimne, May 25.—Paul Youngerbaugh, a German, who has been in this country for 18 months, was today sentenced to a year in jail and fined $50 for destroying a French flag. The jail sentence was suspended as witnesses testified that Youngerbaugh after destroying the French flag turned around and saluted the American flag.

(By Associated Press) SUBMARINE TOLL OF THREE MERCHANTMEN

Paris, May 25.—One French merchantman of 1,600 tons and two under that tonnage were sunk by submarines or mines during the week ending May 20. Three ships were attacked, but escaped.

BRAZIL WILL PATROL SOUTH ATLANTIC

(By Associated Press)
Rio Janeiro, May 25.—According to a Rio Janeiro paper, the congress has voted for the revocation of Brazil's neutrality in the war between the U. S. and Germany and will police the South Atlantic with the Brazilian navy.

GLOUCESTER MAN DEAD

(By Associated Press)
Gloucester, Mass., May 25.—David B. Smith, vice president of the Gorton-Pew fish company and for many years head of the David Smith company, died of pneumonia today, after an illness of two days. He was 69 years old. For a quarter of a century he was prominently identified in building up the fishing industry of Gloucester.

NOT REQUIRED TO REGISTER

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 25.—Members of military or naval forces, subject to being called or drafted into the service, are not required to be registered by the selective draft act. This was stated in a telegram from Provost Grand Marshal Crowder.

ATTEMPT TO WORK SECRET ORDER FOR LOOSE CHANGE

Police Find That Morse From Maine Is Old Hand at the Game.

Ralph Morse, who says he is an engineer attempted to engineer some money out of members of a certain order on Thursday and engineered into the municipal court today and later engineered to farm engineering at the County Farm.

Morse who came in from some county in Maine did a lot of wig-wagging around the post office claiming that he was a member of an order and needed assistance. He pushed out a lot of signs, handshakes and side steps in his efforts to extract some loose cash from those he met. They told him that his signals were crossed and the blows had been dealt the submarines during the past three weeks and that the shipping losses of May would show a reduction from that of April.

The speaker further said, "We owe a considerable debt of gratitude to the great American people."

stuff was bunk. But not discouraged, continued to plug away until a cop gave him the high sign and signed up at the Chapel street camp. While he was preparing some more signs for the game the police got in communication with a lodge at Rockport, Maine, who wired that Ralph was an artist with the secret order stuff and had worked it all over New England. The court took a hand today in the matter but Morse had no signs that would indicate that he was strictly an honest man and he was drafted for six months at the Rockingham County Farming Institute where he will have signs of work for the fall harvest.

Political Rally

In addresses delivered on Thursday at the Portsmouth theatre to a large and enthusiastic audience the merits of the candidacy of the Hon. Patrick H. Sullivan of Manchester over the Hon. Sherman D. Burroughs also of Manchester, for election to Congress for the seat made vacant by the late Cyrus A. Sulloway. The speakers were Mr. Sullivan, the democratic candidate, Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, former Congressman from Pennsylvania, and the Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, former Mayor of Boston. In his address Mr. Fitzgerald paid a high tribute to Secretary of the Navy Daniels for his fair treatment of the navy yards of Boston and Portsmouth, stating that he was the first official who recognized during peace times that such yards existed.

Mr. Fitzgerald was easily the most popular of the three speakers, even passing the candidate, as indicated by the manner in which he was received.

REFUGEES MAKE ESCAPE IN BOAT BUILT AT NIGHT

(By Associated Press)

Cairo, Egypt, May 25.—A family of refugees from Tripoli, Syria, has just arrived here having escaped from Turkish territory in a boat of their own manufacture. The boat was constructed entirely at night, being built inside their house with the utmost secrecy. As soon as completed it was launched late one evening on a rough sea. The journey to a place of safety was a terrible one, the occupants of the boat being much of the time waist deep in water and escaping sinking only by tireless and persistent bailing.

According to information brought by this family, the population of Jerusalem had been reduced about 60 per cent since the war. Some smaller villages particularly on the northern coast of Lebanon have only one-seventh of their old population left, the remainder having either died or emigrated to the interior to escape starvation.

This year's crop in Syria is estimated at only 25 per cent the normal average. The price of bread in Beirut is about 30 cents a pound, or $1.00 a pound in paper money.

ENOUGH CLOTH TO CLOTHE THE POPULATION

(By Associated Press)

London, May 25.—In order to maintain the supply of clothing for the essential needs of the civilian population and to prevent extravagance in dress, the Central Wool Advisory committee recommends that a limited number of standardized clothes should be manufactured for the home trade and be made only partly of wool.

It has been ascertained from a recently taken census that there is now enough cloth in the country to clothe the population with reasonable economy for a year. The action has been taken in order to allow the greatest possible quality of raw wool to be used for army purposes, the requirements of which are likely to be increased by the entrance of American on the side of the Allies.

FIRST DRILL OF AMERICAN STUDENTS

(By Associated Press)

Oxford, England, May 25.—The first drill or parade of American students taking the voluntary military training course here took place this afternoon. A platoon was organized.

Although the training is being given by British officers no obligation has been incurred to join the British army. It is expected that the platoon will be recognized by the American war department and that the members will be transferred to the American army or expeditionary force at the most convenient time.

While the students as yet form part of no army, they are probably the first Americans to be drilled on European soil.

KITTERY

Kittery, May 25.—The Maine Library Association is today holding its annual meeting at the Government Street Methodist church, with the trustees and librarians of the Rice Public Library in charge of the affairs. The librarians from all over Maine who are attending this meeting arrived in town this morning and the sessions opened at 2 o'clock, dinner being served at noon in the vestry by the members of the Ladies Aid society, the menu comprising meat pies, baked macaroni and tomatoes, potato salad, hot rolls, pecan pie, assorted cake, ice cream and coffee. The following program was given:

Address of Welcome—Alexander Bennett, president trustees Rice Public Library.

Response for the association—William P. Livingstone, Maine State Librarian.

Business session.

Library Work With Children—Miss Grace H. Bolton, Bangor Public Library.

New Hampshire Libraries—Miss Hannah G. Fernald, Public Library, Portsmouth, N. H.

Co-operation Among Maine Libraries—Charles A. Flagg, Bangor Public Library.

Supper will be served also in the vestry by the Aid society, to which any one can secure a ticket, after which a fine program has been prepared for the evening, which is open to the public upon payment of a small charge. The present officers of the association are: President, Gerald G. Wilder of Brunswick; vice presidents, Charles A. Flagg, Bangor, Julia M. Clapp, Augusta; secretary, Marion Bradburn, Augusta; treasurer, Edna A. Goodhue, Saco.

The following comprise the board of trustees of the Rice Public Library: President, Alex. Bennett, 2nd Lieut. of Engineers, U. S. C. G.; vice president, Edward E. Shapleigh, M. D.; secretary and treasurer, Elmer J. Burnham, Register of Deeds, York County; Clarence M. Prince, Town Clerk, and Mrs. Mary Safford Wilder.

Miss Eleanor H. Lovell is librarian, and it is through her efforts that the building was held in this town.

A short historical sketch of the library may be read with interest by many.

Rice Public Library was made possible through the munificence of Miss Arabella Rice of Portsmouth, N. H., who in 1874 left by will the sum of $30,000 in trust, the income to be used for a free public library for the benefit of the inhabitants of the town of Kittery. This she did out of regard for the memory of her father, Robert Rice, who was a native of the town. The library was first established Sept. 20, 1876, in a rented room in Wentworth block, with Miss Abbie A. P. Goodhue as librarian.

With the accumulation of the income of the fund, a lot of land was bought and the present library building erected at a cost of about $17,000. It was dedicated Nov. 6, 1889.

The library now consists of about 11,328 volumes, and some volumes are added each year. The annual circulation of books averages 9,729 volumes and is increasing yearly.

The marriage of Miss Doris May Sprague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Sprague, and John Everett Nicholson of Lynn, occurred on Thursday at the parsonage of the Second Christian church, Rev. Carl Leon Nichols performing the ceremony. The bride was attired in a gray tulle traveling gown, pink waist, and hat to match. After a short wedding trip to Boston and Lynn, they will take up their residence in town, staying with the bride's parents until the house on Williams avenue is ready for occupancy. The bride is a graduate of Tripp Academy, class of 1916, and the groom is employed on the navy yard.

The young couple has hosts of friends who extend congratulations and wish them many years of happy and prosperous wedded life.

The choir rehearsal of the Second Christian church will be held tonight at the vestry and all members are requested to be present.

Mrs. William Given has returned to her home in Bath, after a visit with her husband, who is employed on the navy yard.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Samuel Wendell of Washburn avenue passed Thursday in Kittery, the guests of relatives.

Harry Tuttle is soon to move his family from Portsmouth to Kittery.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "TIZ."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your feet will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous excretions which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait! Ah! how glad your feet got; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

EIGHTY-EIGHT INDICTMENTS AGAINST ONION DEALERS

Federal Grand Jury Finds that Dealers Had Clubbed Together for Price Raising When There Was No Shortage

(By Associated Press)

Boston, May 24.—Eighty-eight corporations and individuals were indicted today by a federal grand jury on a charge of violations of the Interstate Commerce Commission laws by their operations in onions. The indictments were returned as a result of a nationwide investigation conducted last fall by U. S. District Attorney George W. Anderson of this city. Mr. Anderson asserts that these people had purchased large quantities of onions in the early summer and fall for as little as two and three cents a pound in many instances in the north and then placed them in storage houses, holding them for late fall and winter when they were sold to dealers at ten and fifteen cents a pound.

"The government hopes to prove," he said in a statement to the Associated Press this afternoon that the defendants made an onion compact laying out their plans and carrying them into force for buying in bulk large quantities of onions in the northern states in the summer and fall and placing them in storage houses. These were released for sale between September and April at greatly increased prices. We hope to prove that this American Onion Association has been practicing this illegal procedure for more than three years.

"The investigation has disclosed the fact that this combination in Sept. 1915, controlled 75 per cent of all the onions in the country. They have headquarters at Kenton, O., where the annual meeting was held in July and the August meeting took place in Springfield, Mass. Monthly meetings were held in various other sections of the country.

"In 1916 the amount of onion produced was large, and the bulk of the output was purchased by the association at two cents a pound and was released to the dealers later at 10 cents and 15 cents a pound. We claim that the margin of profit is illegal and expect to win conviction against the defendants without trouble.

those governing the registration, which will take place June 5. He said that until the other regulations governing the determination of exemptions, exclusions and discharges were promulgated, further information would not be given out at his office, as it might prove misleading. He emphasized the fact that the termination of exemptions and discharges was a second step in the mobilizing of the national army and quite separate from registration. All men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty inclusive must register June 5.

"Even convicts and alien enemies are required to register," says a statement issued today, adding, however, that those liable should not confuse registration with actual drafting for service in the army. "The statement points out also that the application of the draft and calling selected men to colors will furnish the opportunity for those who believe they should be exempted to submit their claims. The process of selection will be carried out, it adds, 'by lot by the fairest system that can be devised.'

MAKING THE SMALL GARDEN WORK

Washington, D. C., May 24.—A little forethought will enable a comparatively small tract of land to supply the average family with fresh vegetables throughout the growing season, say the specialists in the United States department of agriculture.

Most owners of small gardens are content to grow a staple crop on each plot of land at their disposal. It is quite possible, however, to grow two or three crops in one season, and if these are properly selected the home-grown produce will be much better quality than any that can be purchased on the market.

Just what vegetables are to be grown, depends, of course, upon the individual tastes of the family. In general, it may be said, however, that the aim of the home gardener should be to raise vegetables in which freshness is an important quality. Peas and string beans, for example, lose much of their value after they are picked. On the other hand, as good potatoes can be kept as long as a year, and, moreover, they occupy a large area in proportion to their yield and consume in a back yard or small garden, valuable space which could be put to more profitable use. This is true also of corn, cucumbers, squashes and melons.

It will also pay the amateur gardener to grow certain specialties of which he may be fond, and which may be troublesome or expensive to purchase. Onions are an example of this class, and little beds of parsley, chives or other herbs take up very little room and provide the housewife with little additions for her table which are most welcome if they can be picked at the right moment without trouble.

If the small garden plot, however, is to be made to bring the maximum returns in economy and pleasure to the owner, every available foot of it must be made to work continuously. This can be accomplished only by the most careful planning and it is recommended, therefore, that amateur gardeners draw up in advance a complete plan of their character is shown in the appended diagram.

On the plan the gardener should indicate the date when each of his projected crops is to be planted. No more space should be allotted to both than is needed to furnish a sufficient quantity of the vegetable for the family consumption or for local sale. In many cases, also, space should be left between the rows for the interplanting of later crops and for easy cultivation. Plants which make a high growth and cause a heavy shade must not be located where they will interfere with sun-loving small plants. Perennials, too, such as rhubarb and asparagus which are not cultivated, should not be grown among plants that call for tillage.

If a garden is planted in this way and the scheme carried out, the plan should be kept for use the following year with notes of the success or failure of the different items in it. For example, if too much or too little of any vegetable was grown this fact, however, to follow to closely the same kind of vegetables should not be grown plan in succeeding years. The same rule, if this can be avoided, in the same part of the garden.

Washington, May 24.—While President Wilson will have the final word in all matters pertaining to the draft which will provide the necessary 500,000 men for the National Army, War Department officials made it plain today that it probably would be necessary to draft 1,000,000, instead of 500,000, in order to fill the ranks. Furthermore, exemptions from service will not be granted until after the draft has taken place.

It is obvious that the ordinary exemptions from service prescribed by law and the failure of drafted men to pass the necessary physical tests for service in the field. The physical test will probably remove by far the greater number from the list of eligibles. Instead of proceeding to weed out the entire 1,000,000 who will register on June 5, a tremendous job, the War Department proposes to examine only the number of men actually drafted, which would, in any event, probably not exceed 1,000,000. It may be that the President will prefer to draft two increments of 500,000 men each, but the army officers believe that, on the average, one man will be exempt from service on legal reasons for every one registered.

Immediately after the registration has been completed the rules and regulations for the draft will be issued by the President, together with the ready been decided that district judges cannot sit on the board of appeals which will deal with claims for exemptions for the reason that legal questions may arise which must be determined by the judiciary.

Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder said today that President Wilson would appoint the boards to determine whether a particular claim for exemption from military service under the selective service bill should be granted. Previous to this time it had been generally understood that the boards would consist of three members each, one to be appointed by the President, and the other two by the governor of each individual state. By giving the President power to appoint the members, the boards are expected to be removed from all local influences.

General Crowder said that the only regulations prescribed thus far are

PORTSMOUTH INDEPENDENTS WON FROM FT. CONSTITUTION

In a fast baseball game on Thursday evening the Portsmouth Independents defeated Fort Constitution, 2 to 1, in a four and one-half inning session. The game was played with the greatest amount of "pep" shown by both sides and was a pitcher's battle all the way through. The work of the soldier's pitcher, Thomas, was of the highest order and he held the local men hitless until the fourth inning when Moran was substituted for Davis and with two men on Moran eluded the pit to short center scoring McElwee and Leary, and taking second on the throw to the plate from center.

Bill Leary for the Portsmouth nine was hardly less effective, holding the opposing batters to three scattered hits, one for two bases. The catch made by Bruce of Hickman in the second was a feature and prevented a probable hit for extra bases. The summary:

ITALIANS LAUNCH ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL FORWARD MOVE

(By Associated Press)

Fighting on a front ten miles in width the Italians commenced a new offensive against the Austrians on the Carso plateau and have broken the enemy line, taking several important positions between Castagnavizza to the Adriatic, the line ending at the Gulf of Trieste. The new drive came as a complete surprise to the Austrians and is a direct means to Trieste as the Italian forces are now less than ten miles from the important Austrian port. The distance which must be traversed before Trieste will fall into their hands is a difficult one from a military point, although comparatively short. It lies directly along the Carso plateau. In the fighting more than 5000 Austrians were made prisoners.

The Italian forces were aided greatly by the offensive by the several batteries of British artillery sent to the Isonzo front to assist them. The executive appeal delivered by Minister of War M. Kerensky of Russia to the soldiers and citizens of the nation to remain firm in their stand for liberty and to assist the Entente Allies to wage successful war against imperialism and militarism, as embodied in the German empire has evidently met with success. The fighting on the Russian front is more spirited and the garrison at Sebastopol, the famous Russian fortress and naval station in Crimea has asked to be allowed to move north so as to give battle to the German forces which are threatening Riga.

On the western front comparative quiet is maintained except for artillery duels, the official reports say.

FITZGERALD HAS PRAISE FOR SEC. DANIELS

dent in his foreign policies and that although this had been promised by Mr. Burroughs in his speeches about the district, it was impossible for him to do so because he was a republican.

The tariff issue raised by Mr. Burroughs Mr. Sullivan asserted, was also a dead issue and had no place in the present campaign. He said that Mr. Burroughs' claim that this country would be made a dumping ground for European manufactures after the war was a pub-a-boo to frighten people and that there was no danger of this happening. He said that a protective tariff was one for the interests only and was not beneficial to the public, the manufacturer, or laborer.

The meeting was opened by Thomas Donovan who presented Mayor Ladd. The Mayor made a few remarks on the general political situation in the First Congressional district and immediately introduced Mr. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan spoke convincingly and with evident sincerity, attacking Mr. Burroughs and asserting that the present campaign should not be along political lines. He was followed by Mr. Palmer of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Palmer reviewed the political situation in the country and urged the election of Mr. Sullivan as an endorsement of the policies of Mr. Wilson. He stated that the tariff issue raised by Mr. Burroughs was not vital at this time and was unnecessary as the formation of the tariff commission made tariff agitation out of the question. He said that the establishment of the tariff commission board had taken the tariff out of politics.

He reviewed the work of the Democratic party since the beginning of the Wilson administration and urged the undivided support of the country for President Wilson during the war. The Hon. John P. Fitzgerald of Boston, former mayor of the city, was then introduced by Mayor Ladd. Mr. Fitzgerald was late in arriving, reaching the platform while Mr. Palmer was speaking, and the audience immediately broke into hearty and prolonged applause which interrupted the speaker for several moments.

From the moment he began to speak until he concluded Mr. Fitzgerald held his audience and had the time been longer could easily have talked for another hour without losing his grip. He was perhaps one of the best received political speakers the city has entertained for years.

Mr. Fitzgerald urged the election of Mr. Sullivan for the good he would be able to do as a member of the party in control, as he would "be on the inside" which Mr. Burroughs would be on the "outside" of all the conferences on legislation. He stated that Mr. Sullivan should cast a big vote for Mr. Sullivan as a Democrat in appreciation of what Mr. Daniels had done for Boston and Portsmouth navy yards and said that he was the first secretary of the navy to give either of the New England yards any consideration. He had at his tongue's end a great amount of information about the political situation in the state and asserted that the states of New England, the country, and practically the entire world was watching New Hampshire to learn if the district would stand behind the President and show this by the election of Mr. Sullivan. He spoke for nearly an hour with fervor and ability and was interrupted time and time again by the applause which followed his many arguments. He also spoke of the work of the administration toward the building up of our merchant marine and pointed a glowing picture of the return of shipping to the ports of Portsmouth, Portland and Boston which were at one time represented by their ships in every port and on every sea in the world. He claimed that the election of Mr. Sullivan meant the continuation of these high aims for the betterment of New England and that Mr. Burroughs' election would "be a slap in the face" for the President.

Before the meeting and at its close a concert program was presented by the Portsmouth City Band under the direction of H. S. Kneeland. The speakers were escorted by a large number of members of the party from the Rockingham to the theatre, in a parade through State, Pleasant and Congress streets, headed by the band.

AN OUNCE OF MEAT

"Many a Mickle Makes a Muckle" Washington, D. C., May 24.—An ounce of edible meat—lean meat, fat and chop, or roast—means hardly worth saving.

Many households take just this view of the matter—do not trouble to put such an insignificant scrap into the ice box or soup pot—do not bother to save for cooking a spoonful or two of drippings or a flay bit of meat or fat. Yet if every one of our 20,000,000 American families on the average wastes each day only one ounce of edible meat or fat, it means a daily waste of 1,250,000 pounds of animal food—545,000,000 pounds of valuable animal food a year.

At averaged dressed weights, it would take the gross weight of over 375,000 steers, or over 3,000,000 hogs—bones and all—to provide this waste of meat or fat for each garbage pail or kitchen sink. If the bones and butcher's waste are eliminated, these figures would be increased to 1,125,000 cattle and 4,750,000 hogs.

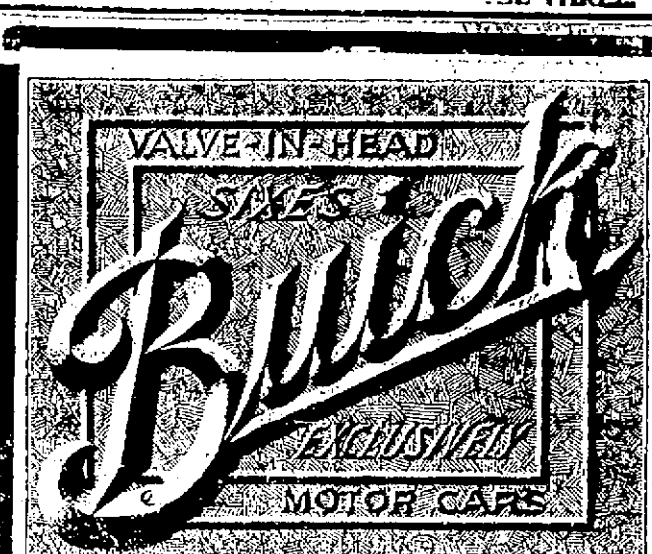

Or, again, if the waste were distributed according to the per capita consumption of the various meats (excluding bones), it would use up a combined herd of over 535,000 beef animals, 291,000 calves, over 626,000 sheep and lambs, and over 2,132,000 hogs.

Millions of tons of feed and hay, the grass from vast pastures and the labor of armies of cattlemen and butchers also would be scrapped by this meat-waste route.

But—every household doesn't waste an ounce of meat or fat every day? Very well—make it one out of a hundred families, but keep in mind that all meat allowed to spoil and all meat and fat rendered inedible by improper cooking, scorching or burning must be counted as waste. Make it an ounce every other day or once a month. Such waste still would be considerable when meat is scarce and when fat is of such vital food importance to many nations.

Waste of meat or fat is unnecessary. Every bit of meat can be used in soups, stews, or in combination with cereals; every spoonful of fat can be employed in cooking; every bit of drippings and gravy can be saved and easily and used to add flavor and nourishment to other dishes.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., or your State Agricultural College will tell you how to use bits of meat to make appetizing and nutritious dishes and how to use left over fat in cooking.

GIVEN AN INCREASE OF WAGES

Mexico City, April 24.—A strike of textile workers in the federal district, the state of Mexico and Vera Cruz has been settled by arbitration in which C. Lopez de Lara, governor of the federal district played an important part. The strikers were given increases in wages ranging from 5 to 100 per cent, graduated according to the wages now received. Workmen earning less than 75 centavos a day were given 100 per cent increase while those earning four pesos or more received 36 per cent. As the former wages were based on a ten hour day however, the actual increase in pay under the present eight hour law will not attain these figures. These workers in the textile trades secured advances of from 49 to 100 per cent.

FOUR MONTHS IN A CROCK-LIKE THIS

Do you know that the solid part or body of the best paint is made from metal lead? To make the lead suitable for paint takes nearly four months.

Perforated disks of the pure metal are put into earthen crocks with vinegar in the bottom bowls and tan-bark piled outside. The fumes from the vinegar and tan-bark attack (corrode) the lead disks, slowly turning them into white-lead.

White-lead thus made from pure metal lead, ground and washed, is White-lead made by the four months' process means a paint that will last for years on the house.

It means a tough armor sheath against the attacks of time and weather.

It means an elastic, smooth paint, impenetrable to moisture. It means a paint which goes a long way in spread and wear.

REGISTRATION DAY.

The talk about making June 5 the day designated for the registration of men eligible to conscription, a holiday, which has been heard more or less since the law was passed providing for conscription as a means for raising such an army and navy as the country needs at this time grated harshly on many ears, if those proposing this thing meant that the day should be observed like an ordinary holiday.

As this paper remarked when this talk first began to be heard, registration day is to be no gala occasion. It need not and should not be a day of gloom. But it will be an occasion which should promote seriousness on the part of all. The fact is that the country is face to face with one of the most serious situations in its history, if not the most serious, as the necessity of this registration day attests, and it behooves young and old to go seriously about the stern work in hand.

In this connection the Council of National Defense sends out from Washington some very sensible suggestions to the state Councils of Defense. It is recommended that June 5, the date of registration, be made "a day of consecration to service with the spirit of President Wilson's message to the country." The council goes on to say that the day should be observed not as an ordinary holiday and adds that there should be no costly or elaborate decorations. Each community is asked to make its celebration a public expression of willingness to give the services of its sons to the country. The council suggests that it would be proper to ring church bells and blow fire alarm whistles at 7 o'clock in the morning, the hour at which registration will open, for bands to play near the registration places and for families and neighbors of eligibles to escort them to the registration booths and present them with distinctive badges to show that they have done their duty.

This should be sufficient. It is well that the day should not be ignored by any class of the community, but to turn it into a holiday in the ordinary acceptance of that term would be a mistake. There are troublous times ahead unless all signs are misleading, and the time calls for sober thinking and unflinching action. It is a solemn duty which the young men of the country are called upon to perform on the 5th of June. Their friends and their communities should stand by to inspire and cheer them, but there should be no hilarity. Neither should there be misgiving or mourning. The country calls for men and the thing for all classes to do is to face the situation like men, without needless demonstration and without fear.

Those who subscribe to the Liberty loan will find themselves in notable company, no matter how small the subscriptions. John D. Rockefeller has just taken $5,000,000 more and other millionaires are following suit. The opportunity is equal to that which the Cheshire, Mass., man embraced in the good old days. The farmers of the town pooled their milk for one day and made and sent to President Jefferson a mammoth cheese which has been made famous in song and story. One resident used to boast that he and one of his neighbors contributed the milk of 40 cows, and they did, the neighbor being the owner of 39 and the booster of one. There is nothing like getting into good company and keeping step, and now is the time to do it.

Loyal old Dartmouth tows the mark in true New Hampshire style. More than 500 of her 1,400 students have taken up service with the government or gone directly across the water to join the Dartmouth ambulance units which went to the front some weeks ago. Dartmouth has never yet taken a back seat when the safety of the country was at stake.

The Chicago wheat pit has been very quiet since the threatened government intervention, and this is well. There are a few other "pits" that need attention, notably the coal "pit," and the chances are that unless the operators and dealers fall into line soon they will receive attention. Like the Lord, the American people will not be mocked forever.

The French minister of munitions serves notice on Russia that inaction at the front at this time is equivalent to a separate peace. It is high time for Russia to patch up her home differences and present a solid front to the common enemy. Little home affairs or big home affairs can be attended to after the close of the war.

It is splendid work which the W. M. C. A. is doing for the young sailors of the vessels at the navy yard, and there is every evidence of appreciation. The W. M. C. A. is a very useful and helpful organization and in one way or another is continuously justifying its existence.

The ballot at the coming congressional election will be very short, but it must not for that reason be overlooked. An important duty devolves upon every Republican in the district and with the discharge of this duty nothing should be allowed to interfere.

Curtailing Railroad Service

(From the Newburyport News)

Notice is being given that, on most of the railroads of the country, there will be a marked curtailment of the passenger service during the summer months. This will apply mostly to local and suburban trains and in but small measure to through traffic. There is a certain natural movement of people all through the year which must be cared for. But efforts to stimulate the need need not be made. And all such devices as excursion trains and very frequent suburban passenger service can be put to one side for this year.

For this economy there are two great reasons. One is that there is a shortage of coal which is not likely to be remedied to such an extent that any railroad is justified in using more than is really necessary to give good service. Even though coal comes along in good volume during the summer months, the supply will not surpass the immediate demand, and economy on the part of large users is most desirable.

The other reason is that the railroads are to be taxed practically to their capacity in moving munitions, fuel and food supplies. So great is the volume of this traffic likely to be that engines which are ordinarily in the passenger service will be called for to haul the freights. There will also be from time to time especially in the early fall a demand that troops be moved quickly and in large numbers. For such a call the railroads must be prepared.

There is no reason for thinking that these economies will greatly interfere with any person who has any good reason for moving about from place to place. But the American may possibly have to wait a little longer than usual for his trains and may have to put aside that habit of expecting a train along a suburban line every fifteen minutes or so. Curbing impatience is a good thing, and the object sought well warrants it in this particular case. The railroads must do their bit for the country, like everybody else, and we should help them in it.

Our Trade With Argentina

(From the Boston Transcript)

The news of our achievements in trade with Argentina must be received with discretion. It is gratifying to learn from our consul general there that in 1916 that country purchased more from us than from any other nation. We may hope that that primacy of the United States will be maintained. But we cannot yet regard it as assured. Moreover, another country, Great Britain, so far exceeds us in purchases from Argentina as to surpass us considerably in the total volume of Argentine trade.

The fact is that we reached first place in sales to Argentina in 1916 not because we so greatly increased our trade with that country, but because, for reasons with which we had nothing to do, the trade of our rivals was enormously diminished. Our own trade, in fact, showed little if any more than a normal increase. It did not increase in the four years from 1912 to 1916 nearly as much as it did in the two years from 1910 to 1912; nor even as much as in the one year from 1905 to 1906. For from 1905 to 1906 it increased from $23,564,056 to $22,673,355, or $2,109,606; from 1910 to 1912 it increased from $40,694,941 to $53,153,179, or $12,458,238; while from 1912 to 1916 it increased from $53,153,179 to $61,295,874 or only $8,142,695.

Hitherto our sales to Argentina have been exceeded by those of Great Britain and Germany, and they would still be exceeded by them if it were not for the abnormal conditions produced by the war. Thus in 1912 Great Britain sold to Argentina goods valued at $113,870,000, or more than twice as much as we did, and nearly twice as much as we sold in 1916. Her sales fell in 1916 to $59,133,800, not because of our rivalry, but because of the effects of the war. So Germany's sales to Argentina in 1912 were $81,663,000, or a little more than ours were in 1916, and they decreased to nothing in 1915, not because of us but because of the war. So our leadership has been attained not because we have forged ahead but because our rivals have fallen back.

Nor have we even in such fashion attained a leadership in purchases and thus in Argentine commerce as a whole. Our purchases in 1916 were $109,515,920, which was an enormous increase over 191, when they were only $29,847,011. But Great Britain still surpassed us, with $153,451,993, which, despite or perhaps rather because of the war was a considerable increase over the British figures of 1912, which were only $116,765,000.

It is thus quite obvious that while our trade with Argentina is increasing at an encouraging rate, it has not yet risen to assured predominance. We shall not expect to see Germany easily regain her trade with that country, which she has now altogether lost. But with the return of peace there will doubtless be a revival of British sales to Argentina such as will challenge our utmost ability to equal. The figures of last year, therefore, must not usher us into any fool's paradise. They mean that while we are gaining trade we still have much more to gain before anything like primacy is assured for us even in the markets of our American neighbors.

Alien Respect For Our Flag

(From the New York World)

I am still a German subject. If I were to raise the American flag in front of my store it would of course be for business reasons, and that would make me a hypocrite. I think a flag should be respected more than that.

This statement by a New York business man is strong in common sense. While their conduct merits consideration such men should not be persecuted by super-patriots. Their case is hard; they are in a difficult position; they need and usually deserve their neighbors' sympathy and protection.

Where Gardner is Needed
(From the Philadelphia Telegraph)
Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, might do worse than listen to the request of his constituency to reconsider his resignation from Congress to join the army. Mr. Gardner is undoubtedly very unpatriotic, but he should realize that it is quite important that even war should have a head as well as a body.

Letters from the People

Agree that the Day of the Myth Has Passed
Kittery, Me., May 25, 1917.

Editor:
Just a word regarding the letter in yesterday's Herald signed, "Sun-day Workman," in which he attempts to answer my letter signed Patriot.

He is certainly confused as to the issue for he makes it one of theology, when religion was not even mentioned or the myth, which he speaks of, hinted at. Read it again. The letter gave facts of England's experience and what they found to be economy in the time of war, with regard to the working of men seven days a week. The place where those facts could be found was also given.

The writer, does not happen to be the person referred to as Kittery's leading theologian and if it is a subject of religion that the workman wishes to discuss, he might agree with him quite thoroughly and so might the theologian referred to, the day of myths has passed.

Nevertheless, I know that many men who are working Sunday are not consistent in their patriotism. They work Sunday and loaf enough through the week to make up for it. Is this patriotism, or does it not look, Mr. Reader, as though there might be a financial reason behind it all?

If, according to English experience, it is saving to industry to rest one day in seven, and a saving to the government to have that day come on Sunday, I maintain that I still am interested in the welfare of this government of ours and have a right to the name I choose, as much as other men. Yours as before, for conservation and efficiency.

A PATRIOT.

OLYMPIA THEATRE NOTES.

Abraham Lincoln once said: "Always do the best you can."

Madame Petrova, who has just made her debut in Paramount pictures, is by all odds the most thorough ally of all the motion picture stars. Born in Russia and reared and educated in England, she is an American by choice, thus giving her probably the most extensive claim to consideration as an Allied star of any motion picture favorite.

Fate is often very kind; every worthwhile man gets by much better than he deserves.

We announce that in the near future we are going to show Pathe's latest serial "The Neglected Wife." It stars Ruth Roland, the brilliant star of the "Who Pays" series of several months ago. "The Neglected Wife," is a sort of prize serial as there will be two thousand dollars in prizes offered for the solution of life's greatest problem, marital unhappiness.

On expert authority, it is said that more than 5,000,000 theatre patrons are following "The Mystery of the Double Cross."

We have an unusually good program for the coming week and it will be worth while to read all the announcements pertaining to the same.

Now for today's bill.
Thomas Ince presents the well known and popular star William Desmond supported by Edith May in the "Triangle play," "Blood Will Tell."

It is one of those superlative Ince financial plays with Desmond in the role of a young graduate from college who makes good in the business world in spite of his father's refusal to recognize his abilities.

Ella Hall appears in a wonderful Blue Bird picture, "Polly Redhead," an adaptation of the "Pollywood" stories by Stephen Jayson.

This excellent comedy drama recently had a week's engagement at the Rialto Theatre in New York city.

Molly King, the foremost serial star on the screen today, is supported by Leon Barry in the third chapter of "Mystery of the Double Cross," entitled "An Hour to Live."

A Triangle comedy with Al St. John completes one of our super-excellent Friday and Saturday programs.

URGES WOMEN TO CONSERVE FOOD SUPPLY

Mrs. John D. Sherman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs Issues Appeal.

Never before have the American people been confronted with the absolute necessity of handling on a life and death basis the vast and supposedly inexhaustible natural resources of their country.

First and foremost among these natural resources, as they directly affect the people is the food supply.

Never before has America faced the responsibility of supplying food for its own people and fighting men and also for the nations on whose side we are fighting. We must share with our allies to the last crust.

The responsibility does not depend upon peace or war. If peace were declared tomorrow the conditions would be the same. famine threatens a large part of the world. America's responsibility is just the same. We must feed ourselves and our allies until normal conditions return.

Food conservation is therefore a duty which every citizen owes to the country—a dictate of patriotism which, in the words of the president, "no one can now expect ever to be excused or forgiven for ignoring."

Half of this responsibility lies with the women of the nation. We can help to increase production. We can dry, can conserve food products. We can largely control household waste. We can set the example of intelligent economy. We can adjust our lives to the General Federation pledge:

"I will use only those amounts of food required for adequate nourishment. I will endeavor to control the waste in all kinds of material in the household and to live simply. I will begin now."

The work that confronts us women is no mere pastime of the summer months. It will be a long and hard struggle. Unplanned methods and spasmodic efforts will not do. The work must be intelligent and persistent. It must be done with thorough individual effort and through co-operation with established agencies.

And this work must be done in addition to good works to which we are already pledged, not at their expense. It is an added service at the expense of our ease and leisure time and luxuries. Local interest, home charities and regular duties we owe to society must not suffer. To neglect these is to defeat the whole plan of patriotic service.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs through its eleven departments of work will now in this national crisis concentrate on the conservation of human efficiency. Each of these departments has a direct point of contact.

Woman efficiency depends upon physical and mental efficiency and these depend fundamentally on adequate food production and the right use of the food supply.

The immediate work of the conservation department is food conservation. This is a matter that affects every man, woman and child of the land.

Food conservation has to do with production, storage, transportation, distribution and use. More food must be produced and the supply must be conserved by proper handling. Every product must be put to its best and fullest use.

Food production in general is the special problem of the conservation department. As considered by the conservation department this problem includes all phases of food production and all kinds of food products—crops of all kinds, meat and dairy products.

It also includes the proper handling of the soil, of the water supply, of irrigation and drainage, the preservation of forests on watersheds. The transportation and distribution of food products has to do with the roads—every road, the byways in every little community as well as the main highways and railroads. Time, energy and products are wasted without adequate railway and highway transportation facilities.

Five departments, Conservation, Civics, Home Economics, Education and Legislation are directly concerned with the handling of food products. To avoid overlapping in this work of food conservation the activities of these five departments have been defined as follows:

Conservation—General Situation—General food growing, food storage, food transportation, food distribution
Civics—The Community—Community food growing, community food distribution, municipal regulation.
Home Economics—The Individual—Use of food in household, amounts of food in families, amounts of food and other resources used, amount of waste in household, regulation by the individual.

Education—Promoting school clubs for production and preservation of food, school instruction in thrift, promoting simpler social life among high school girls.
Legislation—Laws regulating these things.

Co-operation with existing federal and state machinery as well as individual initiative must be a feature of this work. Under the Cooperative Agricultural Extension Act, state agricultural colleges in connection with the federal department of agriculture give practical instructions by trained men and women in agriculture and home economics to persons in the home and on the farm.

The county agents of the state agricultural extension work will instruct the most suitable crops, the preparation of the soil, planting and reaping and saving seed, animal and poultry production and the organization of boys' and girls' clubs.

The following directions to state chairmen of conservation will also serve all women in the work of food conservation:

Make arrangements with your state secretary or the state commissioner of agriculture and the state director of the cooperative extension service to use the general federation machinery of the state and agree with them upon the kind of service to be rendered by you.

Secure from the state director of cooperative agricultural extension service at the state agricultural college the list of county agents. Supply your district chairman with the list. Consult with these county agents. Give the county agent in each county the name of the club woman in charge of the work in that county.

For this particular work of food conservation there should be a member of the state conservation committee in each county to concentrate on food conservation.

The national council of defense will create in each state a state council of safety. In connection with the state council there will be created a division of food production and conservation. All state organizations working for food conservation will be represented in this division. County and municipal councils will be created along these lines. All relief and welfare activities will be co-ordinated by the federal, state and municipal governments.

Confer with your state chairman of civics and home economics and plan your work to avoid duplication and overlapping. But remember that it is better to overlap than not to meet.

Encourage and promote community gardening. Every community should raise as much of its own food supply as the conditions will permit; to that extent exactly it adds to the national resources. Do not experiment. Plant crops that are known to do well in your locality. Raise a just proportion of products that may be canned, dried and stored.

endeavor to make use of all of the available soil, even that along the highways and railroads. Be sure that the food products include those suitable to dry, can and store.

In addition to your local agencies of instruction and information in gardening the national emergency food garden commission, American forestry association, Washington, D. C., will supply you with full directions for the planting and care of home gardens.

Emphasize the organizing and financing of boys' and girls' clubs for growing food products, for raising calves, pigs and poultry and for canning, drying and storing perishable and surplus products. Drying is especially important because of a scarcity of tin cans.

You can promote all the food production activities with confidence. There is no risk of excess production. Prices to be fixed by the federal government will be generous. There will be no speculation in foodstuffs. Storage and distribution will be handled by the federal government.

A vital factor of the promotion of food supply by women is the elimination of waste of time and effort in their daily home occupations. It is our duty to put our time, as well as our natural resources, to its best and fullest use. Take stock of your time now.

Also take stock of your resources. What is your "bit" to be? Will you promote boys' and girls' clubs or cultivate a garden or put up a dozen glasses of jelly or dry five pounds of vegetables or raise fifty chickens? Decide what you can do. And begin now. This is a time for complete co-operation among women without regard to race, color, religion or politics.

The vital thing of the moment in food production is to get started in time on a sound basis. Begin work now and begin it right.

PRESIDENT DESIGNATES RED CROSS WEEK

And Urges That Generous Gifts Be Made to Further the Relief Work.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, May 25.—In a proclamation to the American people, President Wilson today designated the week ending June 25 as Red Cross week and urged that during the period generous gifts be made to assist the organization in properly caring for the armed forces of the nation and the administration of relief.

The proclamation points out that every man, woman, and child in the United States may do their respective bits by giving in a spirit of patriotic sacrifice for the maintenance of Red Cross work while a small proportion of the population is serving the nation in the fields of battle. The text of the proclamation follows:

"Inasmuch as our thoughts as a nation are now turned in united purpose towards the performance to the utmost of the services and duties which we have assumed in the cause in the cause of justice and liberty.

"Inasmuch as but a small proportion of our people can have the opportunity to serve upon the actual field of battle, but all men, women and children alike may serve and serve effectively by making it possible to care properly for those who do serve under arms at home and abroad.

"And inasmuch as the American Red Cross is the official reorganized agency for voluntary effort in behalf of the armed forces of the nation and for the administration of relief.

"Now, therefore, by virtue of my authority as President of the United States and President of the American Red Cross, I, Woodrow Wilson, do hereby proclaim the week ending June 25, 1917, as Red Cross Week, during which the people of the United States will be called upon to give generously and in a spirit of patriotic sacrifice for the support and maintenance of this work of national need.

RECRUITING PARTY VISITED HAMPTON

The recruiting party for the State Guard visited Hampton Thursday evening and were allowed the use of the town clerk's office. Several men of the town made known their willingness to join the guard. After a talk with Mr. Tobey, Mr. Lamprey, Mr. Emery and Mr. E. W. White, it was agreed to give the above named committee assistance by Mr. Dunbar, until Saturday night to secure 19 men if possible and not less than 16, in which event the men would be drilled in the town hall at Hampton. They committee said that they felt sure that they would have no trouble in securing the above number of men.

Any man in North Hampton, Hampton Falls, or Exeter and the surrounding country who is interested in getting information by telephoning Mr. Tobey or seeing him in person. The guard is open to all married men and to all single men not yet 18 years of age, or over 45, also any single man between the ages of 18 and 45 who has been refused permission to enlist in other branches of the service. If the city of Portsmouth doesn't furnish more men than it has for the company will be a Dover and Hampton company. Any one interested in Portsmouth had better hurry and enlist as the company will in all probability be closed when the men in Hampton are accepted Saturday evening.

"RUM DID IT"

WHAT MAY BE SAID AFTER THE ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

Derry, N. H., May 24.—Whatever the outcome may be of the congressional election to be held next Tuesday, the cry after it is all over is very likely to be, "Rum Did It." If Mr. Burroughs should be defeated, it will be said that liquor interests did it; on the other hand if Mr. Sullivan should be defeated it will be said that the liquor interests going over to Sullivan drove temperance democrats from their own party, and therefore, "Rum Did It." While very little publicity is being given to this phase of the campaign, it is nevertheless true that many private conferences are being held and this situation thoroughly discussed.

It is reported upon the best of authority that a delegation of prominent democrats in this vicinity visited Mr. Sullivan and notified him that if he was for the liquor interests hundreds of democrats would desert him and vote for Mr. Burroughs, and that Mr. Sullivan stated that he should declare for national prohibition in the near future; but this seems to be too vague for many temperance democrats. What effect this election is to have upon the question of re-enactment of the license law in the state is a grave problem, and one that is giving the supporters of license much worry. It is rumored that at this eleventh hour some of the largest liquor interests are advising those engaged in the business not to mix up in the light and to keep away from the election.

It is emphatically stated by some who have been prominent in advocating license, that it is a serious mistake to bring a liquor issue into this congressional campaign, and that this question should not be made a political issue.

Many realize what happened in the State of Maine when the liquor interest in the state, fortified by liquor interests out of the state, went over bag and baggage to the democratic party. Up to that time they had held certain influence in the republican party, but by going over to the democrats they forced the liquor question as a political issue.

cal issue, and while they assisted the democrats in gaining some local and temporary victories, the republican party "soured off" and declared emphatically for prohibition and nominated and elected the strongest prohibitionists in the state to the several branches of the state government, which sounded the death knell to all license hopes in that state.

Men strongly in favor of license believe that the only way license can ever be re-enacted is to keep the question out of politics, and that if they get such legislation they must get it by the assistance of the republican party, which is in and is bound to be, the majority party in the state; and that if the liquor interests strike a blow at Mr. Burroughs, the republican candidate for Congress, because he is a temperance man, that the republican party is likely to declare for prohibition in the election next year.

It is a fact that the republicans are not afraid of the issue. They realize that prohibition will be in full force after next May, and that when the campaign, next year, is in full swing that there will be no liquor organizations to hamper them, and that men now engaged in the manufacture and sale of liquor, and employees of such institutions will be scattered and disorganized.

Prominent republicans who have been supporters of the license law are pronounced in their views that if the liquor interests undertake to make a target of republican nominees who happen to be temperance men, that they will strike back with all force; and that it is no disgrace to be a temperance man. That all hopes of the re-enactment of the license law in the state must be abandoned indefinitely if the liquor interests strike at Mr. Burroughs in this campaign was the unanimous view in a conference recently held by prominent republicans.

It is known that Judge E. L. Guptill, Chairman of the Republican City Committee of Portsmouth, and member of the Advisory Board of the Republican State Committee, who has always been an ardent supporter of the local option law, and who is said to know something about politics, was among those present and was emphatic in the declaration that advocates of local option must do everything in their power to keep the liquor issue out of this campaign.

NO NEED TO WORRY ABOUT CHANGES IN THE GAME LAWS

For reasons unknown an impression prevails among sportsmen that the last session of the New Hampshire legislature made radical changes in the fish and game laws. As a matter of fact fewer alterations in the laws relating to fish and game were recorded at the session of the legislature which terminated April 19 than have been made before in years.

No far as the game bird law and the trout law are concerned, there are no changes. The open season on woodcock, quail and partridge remains where it has stood for years, from October 1 to December 1.

An attempt was made to extend the open season on ruffed grouse to December 15 in certain counties, giving the bird hunters fifteen days additional in which to hunt New Hampshire's solitary native game bird, and a bill to this effect was favored by men of influence in both the senate and house, but on the closing days of the session it was determined to allow the game bird law to remain unchanged.

No Open Season on Pheasant

An agitation arose in relation to pheasants and a proposition was placed before the house committee on fisheries and game to make an open season the last fifteen days in October on this fast increasing game bird, which is already threatening the annual crop of the farmers of this state, as it has notoriously done in the sister state of Massachusetts. Opposition to a limited pheasant-shooting season came largely from men of Merrimack county who have been working for years to propagate this bird and who are just beginning to see the results of their efforts. It is not unlikely that two years hence will find a demand from farmers for a thinning out of this destructive species of game bird, albeit his great beauty has made him a favorite exhibit in both city and country.

No sportsman associated with the legislature appeared to defend the quail, the opinion being general that it was practically useless to endeavor to raise quail successfully in New Hampshire. The attempt has been made many times to propagate quail in this state, and the result has invariably been the same—failure.

Not only does the game bird law and the trout law remain as they have been on the statute book, but the deer law shows no changes of widespread importance.

At the solicitation of certain members of the legislature having residence in Hillsborough county, the open season on deer in this county was changed from the first fifteen days in December to the last fifteen days. The argument advanced in favor of this change was that trapping was better the last half of December than the first half. All other counties of the state retain the old deer law. Quite a little new rifle territory in the southern section of the state was opened. Rifle towns in Hillsborough county now include Windsor, Hillsborough, the only towns in which the use of rifles was previously permitted, Kensington, Deering, Francesstown, Weare, Atkinson, Hancock and Peterborough. Added rifle towns have also been given to Merrimack county, besides Andover, Wilton, Danbury, Hill, New London, Sutton, Bradford, Warner, Salisbury and Newbury, this county now has Webster and Haverhill in which rifles may be used on deer next December. Sanbornton and New Hampton have been opened to rifles in the county of Belknap.

No more than two deer shall be taken by any one person within the confines of the state. The only section of the state in which more than one deer may be taken is that included in the counties of Coos, Carroll and Grafton, one deer is the bag limit in all other territory.

The really important thing accomplished in fish and game legislation at the last session at Concord was the establishment of a fishing license. This seemed to be called for and after considerable trouble in framing a bill which met the approval of the various interests, a fair and workable fisherman's license law was enacted.

Exceptions to a Fishing License

To resident and non-resident applicants a combination fishing and hunting license is issued by the commission or by agents. If the applicant is a resident of this state he is required to pay the sum of one dollar which entitles him to hunt, shoot, kill, take and transport game birds, animals and fish subject to the suspension of the hunting season by the governor.

If the applicant is a non-resident and wishes to take fresh water fish only he shall pay the sum of one dollar for a non-resident fishing license, but if he desires a combination hunting and fishing license the fee will be $15, the same as has hitherto been fixed for a hunting license alone.

Certain exceptions are made to the fishing license law, the most important being the exemption from a license of residents of any city or town in the state. These may take and possess fresh water fish during the open season in the town or city in which he has his domicile without procuring a license. In other words he may fish without a license in his own town. Outside of it he must pay.

Women and Children Exempted.
Any child resident or non-resident, under the age of 16, may fish without a license. All blind persons may enjoy a similar privilege whether they reside in New Hampshire or not.

A law was passed providing for the establishment of state bird and game sanctuaries and the protection and propagation of wild birds and quadrupeds. For this purpose the fish and game commission with the consent of the owners may control any land, water or shore to an extent of not more than 1000 acres in any one tract, or the right to use the same, including the right of the public in such land or on such water or shore, as a bird and game sanctuary.

A definite open season on black breasted and golden plover, greater and lesser yellow legs, was established from August 16 to December 1 and the same open season was made on wild duck, geese, coots and jack snipe. Ball may be taken from September 1 to December 1.

No horned-pout shall be taken from the waters of New Hampshire, except between the first day of June and the first day of November.

No person shall take lobsters from the waters of the state unless he is and has been for six months, a resident of the state.

Damage Done to Crops.
A person who now suffers loss or damage to annual crops or fruit trees by game birds and game quadrupeds protected by law may, within five days after such damage occurs, notify the commission, who shall investigate the case. If it determined that the loss was caused by such birds or quadrupeds, it shall cause the loss or damage to be appraised by the board of selection and the amount shall be paid from the fish and game fund.

A law was passed prohibiting shooting wild deer, ruffed grouse or partridge, quail, woodcock or any other wild game or birds from an automobile, motorcycle or other motor vehicle during the open season. There is a fine of $100 for deer taken in this manner, $10 on game birds with $5 additional for every bird so taken.

Five Rabbits in One Day.
No person is permitted to take in one day not more than five hares or rabbits, except that owners of land, his tenant or employee, may take at any time and in any number hares and rabbits which are found doing actual damage to his crops and fruit trees.

There are several other minor changes in the law but the above are the principal ones hunters and fishermen in general need to hear in mind. A new edition of the fish and game laws have not yet been published.

LES DARCY THE BOXER IS DEAD

(By Associated Press)
Memphis, Tenn., May 24.—Les Darcy, the Australian boxer who has been in this country for several months and was accused of being a "shakedown" man, died this afternoon in a hospital of pneumonia. He had been in ill health for the past month.

For cough or sore throat, use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Two sizes, 25c and 50c. At all drug stores.

SEEMS EVERYONE HEARD ABOUT IT

All want to try new drug that dries up corns so they lift out.

Good news spreads rapidly and drug stores here are kept busy dispensing freezine, the recent discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers. A quarter of an ounce costs very little at any pharmacy, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

CONDITIONS BAD WITH RESERVISTS AT BOSTON CAMP

(By Associated Press)
Boston, Mass., May 24.—An investigation into conditions at the Commonwealth Pier, the training camp for some thousand or more members of the naval reserve was conducted today by Dr. P. P. Williams, head of the city health department. He found the sanitary conditions excellent and the "kitchen immaculately clean." Medical officers of the camp stated to him that of the 1000 men stationed there, four had been 31 cases of measles, four of mumps and two pneumonia.

Dr. Williams asserted that the navy department should hurry along the uniforms of the boys, many of them being without sufficient clothing and still wearing their summer civilian clothing.

PRESIDENT VETOES BILL

(By Associated Press)
Havana, Cuba, May 24.—President Mendieta has vetoed a bill recently passed by the Cuban congress, which provided that no ship under Cuban registry should be cleared from any port of the republic unless the captain was a native or naturalized citizen.

In vetoing the bill, President Mendieta stated this country is without a sufficient number of experienced navigators to have such a law on its statute books, an attempt to put such a law in operation would work serious injury upon the republic's merchant marine and probably would result in compelling owners of the several large ships now sailing under the Cuban flag to transfer their registry to some other nation.

The measure is said to have been inspired by ambitious Cubans who have been studying marine engineering in the hope that they might be able to become commanders of the several interned German ships recently seized by the Cuban government when diplomatic relations were broken off with that government.

SPORTS LETTER

New York, May 25.—The status of professional boxing in New York state after November 15, is causing promoters of bouts and owners of boxing clubs considerable worry these days.

When Governor Whitman signed the Slater bill at Albany recently it marked the beginning of the end of the Frayley law which since July, 1911, permitted the holding of ten round glove contests in the state of New York in legally licensed clubs. The Slater bill which will wipe the Frayley law off the state statutes next November is expected to leave the legal issue as to the holding of glove fights in New York state, just where it stood prior to the passage of the Frayley law, 21 years ago.

Prior to 1896, fighting and sparring were violations of the penal law in the state of New York, and boxing exhibitions with or without gloves at which an admission fee was charged or received, either directly or indirectly, were forbidden.

In 1896, the statute prohibiting sparring was amended, and allowed athletic clubs to hold boxing and sparring matches provided the club owned the building or had a lease for at least one year upon the building. This was known as the Horton law.

On September 1, 1909, the Horton law was repealed, and boxing and sparring were forbidden in the State of New York up to July, 1911, when the Frayley law provided that the provisions of the penal code should not apply to any sparring match or exhibition conducted by a club licensed by the state athletic commission.

During the four years in which the Horton law was in effect, many notable ring battles were fought in the empire state and several championships in different classes changed hands. From 1906 to 1911 no contests of prominence were decided in New York but many bouts were held under the club membership plan by which the promoters claimed immunity from any infraction of the law on the ground that no admission fee was charged. The repeal of the Frayley measure by the Slater bill which will go into effect next November has been anticipated by many club owners and promoters all through New York state. Several of them are engaged in polishing up their claims, which have lain on dusty shelves for nearly six years and are registering new lists of members with the idea of reviving the membership plan.

That the Frayley law was a fruitful source of revenue to the state coffers during the first five years of its enactment and operation is shown by the annual reports of the New York State Athletic Commission, including the latest which was for the fiscal year, ending November 30, 1915, these reports show that the gross receipts of the several clubs amounted to $1,302,250.51 and the total tax on this paid to the state treasury was $260,250.25. Taking into consideration that almost Slater bill becomes operative and that Slater bill becomes operative and that many important ring contests are to be decided here, in the meantime it is fairly safe to predict that the sixth and final year's boxing under the Frayley regime will be productive of a tax which will bring the total amount of income to the state from this source up to one-third of a million dollars.

A new form of tennis has been developed in several of the European prison camps and has grown popular with the men who in the past have been accustomed to play the game upon either grass or clay courts. For the lack of a better name it has been called Sling Tennis, which is fairly appropriate as the ball or bag is thrown back and forth across the net without being permitted to touch the ground.

This style of play is not exactly new for an effort was made to introduce a somewhat similar form of tennis some years ago but met with little, if any success. Owing to the fact that it requires no specially prepared courts it has been found to be easily adaptable in prison camps, reserve training camps and back of the fighting lines.

LEMONS BRING OUT THE HIDDEN BEAUTY

Make this lotion for very little cost and just see for yourself.

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a whole quart of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will remain pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smoothen and beautify the skin.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons.

PLAN FOR MORE FARM LABORERS

State Food Committee on Public Safety Comes to Aid of Farmers.

The State Food committee of the Public Safety committee completed plans today for an organization for supplying farm labor in New Hampshire. The plan includes town, county and state divisions in the organization.

Each town food committee has been asked to name a local labor agent and to establish a local labor office. This is the essential unit of the system, which proposes that local needs shall be filled from local supply as far as possible. Adjustments between one town and another and county are to be made by the county organizers, who are employed by the state food committee and are constantly traveling among the towns in their respective counties.

The entire work is in charge of a division of the Central Food committee, William H. Polson of Exeter is director of this division.

Two additional men will help to carry out the work for the state committee. Mr. R. E. Taber who is the state expert on farm management, employed jointly by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State College extension service, will now devote all of his time to the labor work, and R. A. Brown, secretary of the New Hampshire Manufacturing association, will also give full time to the new work. These men will represent the state committee in securing supplies of labor and in traveling from county to county among the county organizers.

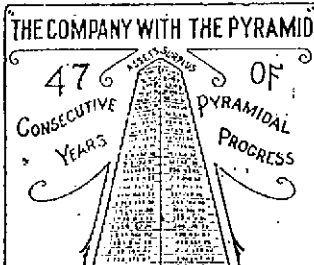

A statement of the plan adopted has been sent to each local food committee. This statement follows:

1. In each town there will be a local farm labor office in charge of a labor agent, appointed by the local food committee.
  2. In each county there is a county farm labor office in charge of the state food committee (a list of the county organizers is enclosed.)
  3. At the office of the State Food committee at Concord, there is a central farm labor office for the entire state.
- The local labor agent will have a list of farmers needing help in the town. This list will be furnished in part by the State Food committee, who are getting this information from the county agricultural agents. This list will be augmented as the farmers of the town learn of the establishment of the town labor office.
- The local labor office will supply the

HOT WATER

Comfort Throughout Your Home

If your home is equipped with a modern system of lighting and heating you know how much comfort they mean to you. BUT does your home also possess means for procuring the comfort of abundant hot water?

A Gas Water Heater

Is just as essential in your home as good lighting or heating, because it provides hot water at a slight cost.

FOR WASH DAYS, CLEANING DAYS, ALL DAYS.

PORTSMOUTH GAS CO.,

ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE.

Great demand for labor from local sources as far as possible. For this purpose the local labor agent will make a survey of available labor in cities of villages that can be enrolled for farm work. In addition the local labor agent will receive from the state food committee at Concord, names of men in factories who have had farm experience and who can work on farms in the town.

On Thursday of each week the local labor agent will report to the county organizer as to the labor conditions in the town, in order that the county organizer may act as a clearing house for the county.

The county organizer will receive each week as noted above, a report from the local labor agents as to the local labor conditions, and will endeavor to supply men from one town to another.

On Saturday of each week the county organizer will report to the state food committee, at Concord, the condition of his county.

From the reports received from the several counties, reports from factories and other sources, the state food committee will endeavor to equalize the all sources of labor supply and to labor conditions over the state, to utilize, exercise general supervision over the entire plan.

U. S. CHILD LABOR LAW MUST NOT BE SUSPENDED

To Suspend Federal Child Labor Law Would Aid Enemy Says National Child Labor Committee—Iron Cross to Those Who Would Suspend It.

The proposal of certain Southern Senators to suspend the federal child labor law which goes into effect September 1 has been met by a quick protest from the National Child Labor Committee. "To suspend the national child labor law would practically aid our enemies," says the Committee in a statement published today. "The experience of England and other countries where labor laws were relaxed and children excused from school has proved that to overwork and undertrain our children is to weaken the nation's resources. Within the last few days there has been published a news paper report from England to the effect the munition workers have 'gone stale' because of fatigue and neglect. The British press states that England should adopt America's system of factory welfare regulation. Within a few days, also, the President has issued a warning against the breakdown of labor laws, saying that states which have lowered their standards have made a serious mistake which will react ultimately on the welfare of the people. And yet in the face of these warnings, certain short-sighted individuals propose to suspend our federal child labor law which will assure the children of America protection against overwork in factories, mines, and quarries, even in time of war. The law is not drastic. It fixes simply the minimum requirements existing in most states in the Union: a 14-year age limit for factories, canneries, and work shops; a 16-year limit for mines and quarries; and an 8-hour day and no night work for children between 14 and 16 in factories. It was passed by such an overwhelming majority in Congress last year that there can be no doubt that it expresses the will of the people. And we of the National Child Labor Committee believe that if the law was the will of the people before war threatened to take away the men of the nation, it is more than ever they will now. The children cannot actually do the men's work in the factories and mines. To attempt to use little children in the places of men would both lower the quality and quantity of the output and weaken the future efficiency and health of the race. Therefore the American people will be quick to see that there must be no suspension of the law, and that all efforts to put children under 14 to work in our factories must necessarily react on our national welfare. No matter what excuses of patriotism or expediency the advocates of child labor offer, we must recognize the inhuman nature of their proposal and possibly deprive them with the iron cross for giving aid and comfort to the enemy. If there is any attempt in Congress to suspend this law, the people of America should protest at once to their Representatives and Senators."

FARM LABOR CONTRACTORS

By Raymond S. Spears of the Vigilantes

One thing the farmers need, especially the non-resident owners; at village and city centers of agricultural communities or districts, there ought to be a farm labor contractor.

That is to say, if a farmer found that his crop was getting over-ripe, or if he could not find all the labor he wished, or if he needed certain work promptly done, as digging a drainage ditch or putting in a field of oats or buckwheat, he should have as a resource, a farm labor contractor.

This contractor, called on the telephone, would undertake to put in fifty acres of hay, dig ten acres of potatoes, harvest a hundred acres of oats, or undertake any farm job.

The contractor would send to the field enough men to perform the work in a day, or in two days. He would send out teams, with necessary machines, and send out labor to all the work in the most efficient manner possible.

Such a contractor would undertake any field, farm or agricultural work. He would have a crop to market, pick apples, milk cattle for a milking or a week.

As a temporary measure, such contractors would at the present time be patriotic organizations, doing work for the east, paying the laborers, supplying machinery, etc., as needed, in order to insure the planting of land and cultivation of land which might now go to waste because of lack of labor.

MODERN THEATRE INC.

Again the management of the Modern Theatre, Boston, Mass., known as the photoplay theatre De Luxe, announces at tremendous cost it has obtained the exclusive first-run exhibition rights of Ethel Barrymore in "The Call of Her People," a special production De Luxe, in seven smashing acts. The announcement reads that the Modern Theatre will show the supreme star, Ethel Barrymore, in the above named special feature for the week of May 25.

"The Call of Her People," the marvelous seven-act adaptation of Edward Sheldon's play "Egypt" in which Ethel Barrymore is the star, is a great seven-act special release in which Miss Barrymore has an opportunity to display her remarkable dramatic abilities. She considers her role of Egypt, the gypsy girl, the greatest of her screen career.

Ethel Barrymore made her first appearance on the stage at the Empire Theatre, New York, in 1895, in Henry Guy Carlton's comedy, "The Independent Young Person." Later she became a member of the famous Empire Stock Company, which included her uncle, John Drew, and Maude Adams. "Rosemary" and "Secret Service" were among the plays in which her charm and ability first became widely recognized. In 1900 Charles Frohman elevated her to stardom. In 1915 Miss Barrymore began her motion picture career and so complete was her mastery of the new branch of art that she decided to devote herself exclusively to the screen drama.

HURRAH! RINGLING DAY ALMOST HERE

Big Circus and Great Spectacle Occupy Five Trains Crammed With Wonder.

The big event for which the youngsters and grownups have been impatiently waiting is drawing near. For Ringling Brothers' circus is to exhibit afternoon and night in Lynn, Monday, June 11 and Salem, Tuesday, June 12. Expectancy never ran so high before and it is likely that this district will send a large delegation to feed the elephants.

Unusual interest centers around the fantastic spectacle, "Cinderella," with which the famous showmen are this season opening their wonderful multi tent program. "Cinderella" is probably the best loved of all fairy tales and to see it produced with more than 1000 persons, hundreds of dancing girls and glorious pageants, indeed golden promise of making "childhood's golden dreams come true." In the same great tent will come the marvelous circus numbers in which 400 men and women performers, scores of trained animals and a galaxy of special features are introduced. The majority of the acts are entirely new to America. The Ringling Bros. having secured the pick of all European performers who have been obliged to seek engagements in this country. The all-new street parade will take place show day morning.

Let Us Settle the Furniture Question For You

Put your trust in men who know. You cannot become an expert on furniture, but you can deal with a house that sells on honor, as we do, and feel that what you buy is the kind you want. Also, that the price is as low as shrewd buying and careful business judgment can devise.

You should not judge furniture by the price. If price were the criterion by which furniture should be judged, then quality would be a matter of figures. The furniture we sell is the kind in which the quality is put in before the price goes on.

We will be glad to help you settle the furniture question any day. Come in.

RAILROAD TO IMPROVE THE LOCAL YARD

New Main Line for Southern Division Trains Will Prevent Delays and Confusion

The Boston and Maine is said to be arranging to carry out improvements in the Portsmouth yard that have been hanging for some time for the necessary appropriation. The work, it is understood, will begin at once and will mean the arrangement of a main line track for all southern division trains direct to the outside of the Portsmouth depot. By such a plan the railroad expects to improve the service by keeping all southern division trains off the main line tracks of the Portland division, thus avoiding much delay and confusion in the yard here. Block signal material is said to be on the way for the new track work and will be installed throughout the southern division yard as far as Barberville Lane.

SAID HE WOULD BLOW UP DEPOT

Boston Painter and Colored Soldiers Mix It Up at the Station.

Michael J. Lane, a painter, who says he hails from Boston, attempted to put a little red paint on the town on Thursday but did not complete the job. Lane was as frisky as the goats on back beer signs and after touring the watering stations at the North End, he landed at the Boston and Maine depot. He told everybody within hearing what he thought about the war and how many good men it would take to subdue him. He declared that the Boston and Maine depot was doomed and that he was there to blow it up.

While he was engaged in the open air oratory one of the guards of Co. 1, Sixth Massachusetts Infantry came along and placed the painter under arrest. He objected to the colored soldier laying hands on him and opened up for an old time clinch. Four more soldiers stepped into the trenches and after reconnoitering for a few minutes piled the brush artist in a large automobile and whizzed him away to the Chapel street barracks. He did not do much talking in the court today and acts of the previous day had passed from his memory. For the next 30 days he will paint some of the new buildings for the county at Brentwood.

PEDDLER GRABS WOMAN'S HANDBAG

Made the Steal While She Was Walking on Market Street.

Edward Twohey, a pencil peddler and panhandler from some where in Connecticut, was on the satchel on Thursday afternoon, and though he worked the game good he really did not get away with it. Twohey was seated on the sidewalk near the Woolworth store when Miss Inez Benjamin came along carrying a handbag. The money receptacle was hanging low enough to attract Edward's attention and he quietly slipped it away from Inez. She entered a store nearby and discovered it was gone. So was the pencil peddler who skipped around the corner and extracted the change, dumping the bag in a barrel. Miss Benjamin called the police and the police called Twohey. Today the judge called him and the clerk of court called out six months. The next call will be at the agricultural college and Twohey embarked on the Bayville limited a noon. He will not get another gaze at a handbag until the bloom is on the clover. The ticket called for a six months' trip at the expense of the county.
